Leadership Matters: Organizational positioning is key to elevating the stature of Adult Education in your agency and in state government. One axiom in our field is “the marginality of adult education.” No matter the host agency (Education, Community Colleges, or Labor), adult education is often regarded as marginal to the mission of that host agency. Getting to the policy table and to the budget table is a complex task. Gaining the attention of other agencies can be even more complex. However, to be very successful with college and career readiness, career pathways, and transitioning, you need to be at the table and you must attract the cooperation of other agencies.

Leadership Matters: Elevating Adult Education at the State Level

April 1 and 2, 2012 Pre-Conference to the OVAE meeting

Hotel: Renaissance Washington DC Downtown Hotel, 999 9th Street NW, Washington, DC

Registration Fee: $150

Register: <http://www.regonline.com/Register/Checkin.aspx?EventID=1058518>

At the pre-conference to the OVAE meeting this spring, we will 1) to share strategies your colleagues have used to reduce marginality and elevate adult education's value to their host agency and 2) to explore successful strategies for bringing other agencies to the table to coordinate services.
